Female "Millionaire."
(From the Indianapolis Herald.)

A woman named Jenny Wilson, about forty years of age, came to the Bates House several days since, and engaged board, representing that she was from Richmond, Va., and had a large quantity of gold and Government bonds in her possession. Her father, she said, was living in Richmond, at the advanced age of 102 years, but was still engaged in business. She herself had until recently owned a large tobacco factory there, but had sold it for $38,000, and had bought a large tract of land near Kansas City, Mo., and was now on her way to Kansas to buy more land. Taking a fancy to Mr. Kenecaster, one of the proprietors, because he was a Virginian, she offered to make him a present of 4,000 extraordinarily fine cigars which had been shipped to Louisville, but having, unfortunately, failed to receive remittances, she borrowed twenty-five or thirty dollars from him to pay her expenses to that place. She also insisted upon lending $25,000 to buy his partner's interest in the establishment, and attempted on several occasions to draw upon her father in Richmond for the amount, but was prevented by the excessive modesty of Mr. Kenecaster. Mr. James Bibbs also came in for a kindness at her hands. She thought he needed a new suit of clothes. Would he please go to a tailor and order a suit, and have the bill sent to her? Of course Bibbs bit, and although too sharp to do anything more than to order the bill to be sent to her before the clothes were made, he was not sharp enough to refuse to lend her ten dollars. A clerk in one of our prominent dry goods houses also lent her fifteen or twenty dollars, and we believe several others contributed to help her on her way to Louisville, where her possessions were at least $12,000 in money. In the mean time Mr. Seymour, the other proprietor, suspected something, and went down to Louisville to find out about her. Being unable to hear of any such woman, he came back and told her that there must be some mistake about it; whereupon, in woman's way, she deceived him with some nicely-invented excuse, and having quieted his fears, temporarily at least, announced her determination to go out shopping. Having no furs at hand, she borrowed the housekeeper's value, $72—and started away. Where she went to is one of the unsolved mysteries; but Mr. James Bibbs will pay thirty dollars to know where she is now. A more arrant swindler never travelled; she evidently has a great deal of talent, or she could not have played her role so successfully. Women travelling alone are at a discount at the Bates House. [A gentleman of Richmond received yesterday a letter stating that this woman was on her way to Virginia; that she claimed to be a sister of Bishop Doeggett, the widow of a Mason, &c., &c.—Rich. Dispatch.]

THE WAR DEPARTMENT.—The recent scenes at the War Department in Washington are worthy the pen of Sylvanus Cobb, and would make one of the most thrilling dime novels ever written. The grim Stanton, holding midnight councils of war about his bivouac in the Department, sending out a faithful emissary to look all the doors in the building, and finally settling himself in his sleepless chair, with the pile of keys on a table before him; the weary passing of the hours of darkness, whose monotony was relieved only by the tramp of sentinels changing guard; the parting, just before daybreak, with his staunch Congressional supporters, who confided the ex-Secretary to the protecting care of one waking patriot, Thayer, of Nebraska! Stanton, we learn, like a true warrior, slept on his arms—or keys—occupying a lounge in his office, while Thayer napped on another. The monotony of the siege was varied by the appearance of breakfast, brought hot from the illustrious gentleman's kitchen, and also by the arrival of Mrs. Stanton, with whom he conversed, venturing without guard to the curb-stone, but leaving his base of operations well protected by Gen. Howard. Having settled the details of his commissariat, he again retired within his intrenchment, there to await in stolid stupidity, the further progress of what will go down in history as the siege of the War Department!—Boston Post.

BUTLER VS. WOODWARD.—In the course of the debate on Monday upon the impeachment resolution Judge Woodward referred to the fact that ten States were excluded from representation in Congress, and he denied the right of the House to impeach anybody, or of the Senate to try any impeachment, because the House was now composed of members "chosen by the several States," nor was the Senate composed of two Senators from each State, and he would, therefore, advise the President to deny the jurisdiction of Congress. These remarks grossly offended Mr. Ben. Butler, who on the instant prepared a resolution to censure or expel Mr. Woodward for treasonable language, but was dissuaded from offering it by his friends.

THE LINCOLN MONUMENT.—The House yesterday passed a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to place at the disposal of the Lincoln Monument Association, incorporated at the last session, damaged and captured ordnance, of which to cast the statues and principal figures surrounding and incorporated in said monument; provided that no metal shall be so appropriated until the voluntary contributions for that purpose, in the hands of the treasurer of the association, shall have reached the sum of one hundred thousand dollars.

HOOP SKIRTS AND PRAYER MEETING.—We were informed yesterday that at a prayer meeting of some of the colored people, when one of the sisters was called on to lead in prayer, she exposed her skirts, and they were immediately recognized by another sister as her property, and the praying sister was called to account. On the whole this is the most remarkable demonstration of piety we have ever heard of.—Petersburg Express.

Messrs. Clotworthy & Co.:
Gents—The wonderful cures which have been made by your Poultryers' Friend cannot fail to interest all who raise poultry. A gentleman of this village has been experimenting on chickens with the gapes. He tried your Poultryers' Friend, according to the directions, and it had the desired effect in removing the worm, effectually relieving the chicken at once. Since then I have had many calls for it, and it has been used extensively with the same result. It is of incalculable value to all who raise poultry. Respectfully,

WHAT! PAPER BAGS AGAIN?
Yes! PAPER BAGS again, and I will be again and again to that, if a discerning people continue to buy.
supply, and keep up the cry, PAPER BAGS. By calling and examining these Paper Bags, you will soon discover why they sell so readily upon so short an acquaintance, and that is their cheapness, and this grows out of the fact that we manufacture our own material, out of which these Paper Bags are made, thus saving one price. Why the fact is we sell largely to other manufacturers at our card list prices, which gives them a wide margin according to their list prices.

In conclusion, I have just received a LARGE SUPPLY of PAPER BAGS; also, COMBINED PAPER and fine MANILLA WRAPPING PAPER, direct from two manufacturers, and intend to make these articles specialties in connection with my other Paper and Stationery business.
